President

Summary

One of the prime responsibilities of the President is to have knowledge of organizational interests and monitor the progress of goals and objectives for the constituent organization. The president must also keep current with all new information and policies within the organization and coordinate the dissemination of this information to members.

The President and Immediate Past President should serve as the primary spokespersons (points of contact for the media) for the organization so that a consistent message is provided. During meetings, the President should initiate discussion about constituent organizational improvements and encourage other leaders to share ideas that have been successfully implemented. This officer should have the ability to conduct meetings, formulate ideas, consummate plans, and delegate responsibility.

He or she should be able to communicate effectively, on all levels and seize any opportunity to positively represent the organization at meetings or social functions that would benefit the organization. The President is also responsible for upholding the organization's policies and procedures and for handling problems among organization members. In order to keep the lines of communication open, the President should be available by phone/email and at meetings to other officers and members, and should return organization-related phone calls/emails in a timely manner. The President should also prepare a final report of the year's activities of the office and include recommendations for the following year.

The President is an executive committee member and voting member of the board.
